This forum is in memory of the distinguished Polish Geographer,
World-wide recognized Karstologist and great friend of Bulgaria,

Professor Marian Pulina

(1936-2005)

INVITATION

Dear colleagues,

For the third time Bulgaria hosts an International Scientific-Practical Forum discussing protected karst territories. This time it is dedicated to their role in education, training and promotion of karst – a natural phenomenon of wide spread and great, but still underrated educational potential. It can be discovered and efficiently realized through integration between the modern educational strategy of “Lifelong Learning” and the latest scientific achievements in Karstology and Speleology. This ensures lasting public interest, especially among young people, who will be motivated for sustainable development of karst regions.

Achievement of these ideas lies in tackling a number of problems and solving many issues. They are summarized in the topics of this forum, which we offer to your attention and kindly invite you to discuss them together in September in Sofia. All of us who are dedicated to Karst and Speleology have rich expertise, interesting ideas and best practices - let us share them in our desire to make karst and caves more familiar and understandable to people.

In turn we will offer initiatives that we have been developing within the specialized educational strategy ProKARSTerra-Edu. One of them deserves special attention and will make the focus of this forum, namely declaring the International Year of Karst and Caves. If we join our efforts and it becomes our common cause, it will surely do much more to make the contemporary globalizing World know better and appreciate the importance of Karst and knowledge about it.

Looking forward to greet you in Sofia!

Petar Stefanov
